It was significant that not only (lower house) has approved a has arisen. None of them want the opposition but also experts on the government side said that long-term structural changes' in the coal industry must be planned.

While government and coal owners maintain that the coal tariff will not lead to increased prices at the home market, many politicians and economic experts (of different socio-political outlook) foresee a 5 per cent increase in coal prices during the coming months. This naturally would react upon other prices too so that the consumers will soon be footing the bill.

Tack Criticized

The situation in the coal industry is not a happy one. Critics declare that the trend is from de-liberalization to cartels to tariffs. And what has happened to coal already is leading to demands for protective tariffs from other branches of industry. Agreement on Trade and Tar-economic protagonist of the "Soziale Marktwirtschaft," which combines competition with social safeguards, has received a severe blow by the coal tariff. And if prices increase, his pres-
